

Creationism

Definition:

Creationism is the belief that God created the world in six days, they believe in a literal interpretation of the Bible

The problem is that you can't believe in both theories,* because one theory excludes the other.

The student argued that the separation of church and state would exist with teaching Creationism in public schools.

His opinion is that (it is not fair to teach belief unique to one religion as science.) Creationism should not be taught in a science class.
